four children, all born out of wedlock, and none of them white. She was entirely blind, and spoke with a heart-broken manner of the agony she had endured when her children were taken from her. We asked her where and why they had been removed. She believed to the last, that the children were taken from her. "A God knows," said she at last, looking up to the feathery clouded sky with blank and sightless eyes. Many of the miserable beings who visited were partially insane. There was one woman, white as leprosy, who had sixteen cats. She had them named by all manner of fantastic titles, and every cat, at her call came up to her feet. She spoke with a singing tone, and occasionally broke out into fits of music.

In one day, we found a gray-haired white man, resting his head in the lap of a black woman. He seemed to have been kicked down the stairway of a miserable tenement.

The officer touched him with his foot. "I'm drunk," said the man, with a leer of idiocy. "Give me a tip to get some gin."

The officer made a slight reply.

"Go to—," said the man, grinning. He was of large frame, and looked as though he had once been handsome; there was something very desolate in his white hairs.

It is useless to recapitulate scenes like these. Our observations convinced us that the white population was not less degraded than the negro. Both were wretched beyond all speech—mere animals, without hopes beyond sensuality; without mind beyond late perception; without enjoyment beyond wickedness; without souls beyond instinct. They were buried in filth and degradation, beyond all missionary toil—dead in mind, in thought, in goodness, as the swine which made their habitation with them. Unfit for future joy; callous and unworthy of future punishment, they have made their lives in corruption and will die like the dogs.

REPUBLICAN NOMINATION.

FOR PRESIDENT,
Abraham Lincoln,
OF ILLINOIS.

FOR VICE-PRESIDENT,
Hannibal Hamlin,
OF MAINE.

FOR ELECTORS.
THOMAS G. TURNER, of Warren.
LATIMER W. BALLOU, of Cumberland.
ELISHA HARRIS, of Coventry.
DAVID BUFFUM, of Middletown.

MR. DOUGLAS.

At the time of Judge Douglas' nomination, we gave our views concerning it, and some points in his life. As he is a gentleman considered by some as thoroughly obedient to the slave power, while others honor him for resenting that power and as he is considered by some an endorser of "free trade," while others consider him in favor of a tariff, we propose to place before our readers a portion of this honorable Senator's record. For, certainly, no public man in America save the Judge, ever was to such a remarkable degree, defended, and assailed, for holding such antagonistic opinions.

And first, let us look at Mr. Douglas' record upon territorial laws. Our readers need not be told, that he holds in argumentation, that non-intervention upon the subject of slavery is the true doctrine; though what "non-intervention" is, may puzzle many of them to tell. And it will perplex the wise ones of our land to definitely define its meaning, if they seek for knowledge upon the subject only, from Senator Douglas' record.

At the North, non-intervention is held out as an arrangement for making free states, and the Senator is pressed upon Northern people upon that ground. To-day, his friends in New York, claim his support by anti-slavery people because his principles will procure the gratification of their desires. They assert that "he is as good an anti-slavery man as Lincoln." And yet at the South, Judge Douglas says:

"Non-Intervention has introduced slavery into the whole of the territory of New Mexico. It has connected a tract of five times the size of the State of New York. Under this deed slave territory has been extended, not only up to 36 deg. 30 min., but up to 38 deg., giving you a degree and a half more than you were claiming."

Mr. Douglas has said in effect, "that all the power which a Territory possesses is derived from the organic law of Congress." In other words, that the latter body has full power over a Territory; and yet, at Rocky Point and various places North, he spoke of the absurdity of citizens within a state settling their own institutions, while the inhabitants of a Territory could not. Then at the South, he holds that the question of slavery in the territories is one which can be settled only by a decision of the Supreme Court, which will be alike authoritative and conclusive. In Illinois, he holds that, "no matter what way the Court may decide, the people can introduce or exclude it as they please, for the reason that Slavery cannot exist a day or an hour anywhere, unless it is supported by local police regulations."

The very Convention which nominated Mr. Douglas, passed a resolution to enable him to carry Louisiana to this effect:

"That the measure of restriction imposed upon the Territorial Legislature by the Convention, as the same has been, or shall be determined by the Supreme Court, should be enforced by every branch of the General Government."

Mr. Douglas spoke in Springfield, Illinois of the Missouri Compromise thus: "It has received the sanction of all parties in every section of the Union. It had its origin in the hearts of all patriotic men, who desired to preserve and perpetuate the blessings of our glorious Union, an origin akin to that of the Constitution, conceived in the same spirit of fraternal affection, and calculated to remove forever the only danger which seemed to threaten the sacred bonds of the Union." "All the evidences indicate that this compromise has become canonized in the hearts of the American people as a sacred thing, which no ruthless hand would be reckless enough to destroy." By this Senator's record, we perceive that the "ruthless hand," "reckless enough not only to disturb," but to destroy, belonged to this very Senator, that he is the one chargeable with breaking this compromise, "canonized in the hearts of the American people as a sacred thing; and when that class of people who minister in 'sacred' things—the great mass of the New England clergy—in language admirable for its respectfulness, petitioned Congress not to 'ruthlessly' destroy this 'sacred thing,' Mr. Douglas charged them with ignorance of the subject (!) and applied to these learned, patriotic, conscientious citizens, the coarsest of epithets. The honorable senator, not only has more largely than any other person contributed to this "ruthless" destruction; not only has given the evidences that "the compromise was canonized," but he, upon the principle that the more of a good thing the better, has endeavored to extend the application of that very compromise, over territory not originally embraced by the Statute.

At one time embalming the compromise in sacred memories, at another extending its blessings, and lastly, "ruthlessly" destroying the canonized; can any one really decide what belief or opinion Mr. Douglas holds?

Mr. Douglas has already held with the Democratic party upon the question of customs. That party are free-traders, and under their rule, Pennsylvania has suffered alike with Rhode Island. At their beck, the furnace fires of the one have been darkened, and the shuttles of the other have ceased flying. At the last session of Congress, the Republican House passed a tariff bill, which had it become law, would have lighted a thousand furnaces, and sent comfort and joy through hundreds of families in the Keystone State. A Democratic senate, by one "ruthless" vote, killed that bill blighted the hopes of suffering thousands, and we hope thereby lost forever, that state's vote. In this matter Mr. Douglas voted in his usual manner, against the tariff, the senate was so nearly balanced. In fact, with justice the Senator can be held responsible for the failure. A few days since when in Pennsylvania, he spoke of the injustice which that state had received from Congress, and sympathized warily with their misfortunes. We do not know any other politician that could do such a thing. We doubt if there is any senator, or member of the other House, so sublimely impudent!

After thinking over these extracts, we ask our readers, if they feel sure of knowing what Mr. Douglas' opinions are, upon any one question? Is he in favor of a tariff or not? Who can tell? Does he believe the Territories can admit or exclude slavery? In fact what are his opinions upon the great questions of the day?

It is remarked that more captures of slavers have taken place under Mr. Toucy's administration of the Navy Department than under all previous administrations of the Department put together.—Journal of Commerce.

It is also remarked that more slavers have escaped under Mr. Toucy's administration, than under any previous administrations. The truth is, the slave trade has enormously increased under this administration.—Providence Journal.

Among the Wide-Awakes from Maine in the great procession Wednesday, were two sons of Hannibal Hamlin.

WIDE-AWAKE POLITICS.

The Great Wide Awake Spectacle.

This great demonstration in New York city last Wednesday night, according to the testimony of the World—which is neutral in politics—was a great success. The spectacle was splendid in the extreme, and was far beyond any kind of a demonstration in that city for beauty, uniqueness, and order, and was marked by an entire abstinence of anything of an offensive character.

Our own Wide Awakes are delighted with their excursion, all uniting in saying that they had a "glorious time." They had a pleasant sail, Green's excellent Band was on board to furnish its charming music, and their Providence brothers were capital associates. Altogether, the "like was never seen."

On the day that our company left home, certain persons, for obvious purposes were busy in starting reports of great riots in prospect, for the visitors in New York; from which, injury to limb and life was freely predicted. But we are happy to say, that these prophecies proved to be of the false kind, and that the foolishness of the prophesy prevented it from accomplishing the intended design. Another ridiculous report was set afloat Thursday, of riots, fights, and awful times, two men being named as severely injured. There was so much absurdity about the matter, that it was also destitute of credence. On the other hand, the Newporters say, that the arrangements for preservation of order were admirable, wonderful. Through the whole route of the procession every few feet, was stationed a police officer, whose presence was generally effectual, but in two instances, where something more was required, they were found ready for any emergency. The streets, although the sidewalks were packed with spectators—were empty of all persons except those in the procession; the curb-stones being the exact boundary of the crowd. There was no crowding of the procession, not even was there any light touching by the spectators. Once, a guide in the Providence Company, brushed a large man, who at the moment was leaning over the curb-stone and came in contact with the guide's torch. This man drew back his fist, but before he could strike, a police officer had hold of his arm, and he went to the inner side of the side walk, at a faster than 2.40 speed.

We have been accustomed to hear much of the lawlessness of New York, of the riots, fights, of that wicked city. But really, in this case, where has there been the most rowdiness, in New York or Newport? Compare the treatment which our citizens have received in New York and Newport, and which is entitled to the most credit, that city or this? We give no opinion, ourselves, willing that our citizens should answer for themselves.

A few evenings ago in Roxbury, Mass., a company of Wide Awakes while marching, unexpectedly came upon a Bell and Everett Company at rest. The latter immediately came to a salute, and so stood, while the former marched by. Subsequently the Wide Awakes returned the compliment. Last week, a Wide Awake Club were marching by the Head Quarters of a Bell and Everett Club in Boston, when the Bell and Everett gave the Wide Awakes three rousing cheers, which were immediately, and heartily returned by the latter. Next week there is to be a grand demonstration in one of the cities near Boston, by the Wide Awakes. For that occasion, the Bell and Everett Club, holding a large Club-room or hall, near the location, selected for the Wide Awake meeting, have courteously tendered to the Wide Awake, the free use of the Hall, and offered, for that day, to take down their own flag, and allow their halliards to carry up "Lincoln and Hamlin," to float upon the breeze. We know that the better part of every man's nature, leaps to the conclusion, that these courtesies are right, that they are honorable, productive of good feeling, and redound to the credit of generous men. Why not all men, every where, copy so good an example?

An Example.—Mr. Douglas is commended by his flatterers as the exact counterpart, and almost the reproduction of Gen. Jackson. We think there are some slight differences of character between the two heroes, but as one is said to have been constructed on the model of the other, his example may be cited as worthy of imitation, when nominated as a candidate for the Presidency. Gen. Jackson did not consider it consistent with either propriety or dignity to take the "stump," as if he were running for an alderman's chair, or a county clerkship. Here is what he wrote to the Legislature of Tennessee in 1825:

"My name having been before the nation for the office of Chief Magistrate during the time I served as your Senator, placed me in a situation truly delicate; but, delicate as it was, my friends did not, and my enemies cannot, charge me with descending from the independent ground then occupied, with degrading the trust reposed in me by intruding for the Presidential chair. As by a resolution of your body you have thought proper to present my name to the American people, I must entreat to be excused from any further service in the Senate and to suggest in conclusion that it is due to myself to practise upon the maxim recommended to others; and hence feel constrained to retire from a situation where temptation may exist, and suspicions arise, of the exercise of an influence tending to my own aggrandizement.

"Accept, &c. &c. ANDREW JACKSON."

Speaking of General Foster, the Democratic candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, the Philadelphia Press says:—

It must here be confessed that General Foster occupies a somewhat peculiar position. His doubtful stand between the electoral tickets, that squarely pledged to Douglas and the fusion ticket, is not; to a positive man, an enviable one. He ought, for his own sake, to have made his election between them. It would be far more honorable to fall upon the side of one of these tickets, than to win by occupying a neutral position.

Republicanism in Virginia.—To the Editor of the N. Y. Tribune:—Sir: The Republicans of Falls Church in this county raised a Lincoln and Hamlin pole last Saturday. They nailed the flag to the mast, and will never surrender the principle of free speech. In 1858 no man could vote for Fremont for fear of being mobbed. I think the Republicans will poll 50 votes now for Lincoln.

P. S.—Do not print my name, as it is not safe at present. Curse this despotism, when a man cannot tell the truth without being persecuted. We calculate to carry this State in 1864.

Alexandria County, Va., Oct. 1, 1860.

In Philadelphia, Wednesday, the parade of the Republican clubs to receive Col. Curtin, at the close of his campaign in the interior, was the largest and most imposing ever witnessed in that city. Upwards of 10,000 voters were in line at one time, and the streets through which the procession passed were thronged with multitudes of spectators for miles, who cheered it at all prominent points.

The Wide Awakes of Westerly and Ashaway had a torch-light procession in this village last Saturday evening. They numbered, including band and officers, one hundred and fourteen, ninety-five of them carrying torches. They made a very imposing appearance. It is reported that these companies will attend the demonstration at Norwich, on the 17th of October.—Narragansett Weekly.

Prentice on Yancey.—An Alabama paper expresses its belief that Mr. Yancey's whole political life has been a curse to the country. We believe so too. We don't wish Yancey dead, but we are sorry that his mother didn't refuse to have his father. Mr. Yancey never stood upon a platform that we could approve. We presume he never will till he is about to be hung.—Louisville Journal.

The Governor of Ohio.—We learn that his Excellency Governor Dennison of Ohio, will spend several days in Providence next week, as the guest of Governor Sprague, and that he will be present at the Brigade Review on the 19th instant.—Journal.

Capt Rynders is going to have a torch-light procession to rival the enormous display of Wednesday. Only it isn't to take place till after the Pennsylvania election. That is a good idea.

The Western (N. C.) Progress says:—"Let us defeat Lincoln if we can; but if we cannot, then let us stay in the Union and make him toe the mark."

LOCAL NEWS ITEMS.

THE MAGIC RUFFLE.—Through the kindness of the "Magic Ruffle Company," of New York, we are enabled to speak of their productions understandingly and with praise, as we have a sample box of the various sizes before us. These ruffles, we are informed, and the machine which produces them, are each the subject of a patent, and the invention of Mr. George B. Arnold, of New York. The patented peculiarity of the Ruffle is, that it has no gathering thread. The machines by which they are made are run by steam, and each with the attention of a single girl produces one and a half yards of ruffling in a minute. The Company are now manufacturing at the rate of 10,000 yards per day, and we understand they find a ready sale for the goods.

The cheapness, strength, and beautiful precision with which these articles are made, commend them, especially to the ladies, who will find them a great saving of hand needle work in making and tasteful ornamenting their own and children's garments. We understand that the Dry Goods dealers of Newport have for some time been supplied with this tasteful article, and that the ladies of our city have already learned to appreciate its merits.

"MINUTE MEN."—We understand the Bell and Everett men of this city are making an effort to form a company of "Minute Men," something after the manner of the Wide Awakes. The next, we expect, will be a company of "Little Giants." Let them come. It is time the other parties "showed their hands," if ever. By the way, where are the Breckinridge men, and what are they about? We take it they are about as numerous in this quarter as grasshoppers in winter.

EDITOR'S BOOK TABLE.

The Adventures of James Capen Adams, Mountaineer and Grizzly Bear Hunter of California. By Theodore H. Hittell. Illustrated.—Boston: Crosby, Nichols, Lee & Co. For sale in Newport by C. E. Hammett, Jr. & Bro.

Who has not heard of old grizzly Adams? the daring hunter, whose name has become of late almost a part of every menagerie of wild animals which exhibits its wonders in our cities. His story has been told, over and over again, in connection with that of the sovereign beasts which it has been his fortune to conquer and bring in cages before the gazing crowd, who, with mouth wide open, and hair "on end," listen to the wonderful story of their capture, from the mouth of their illiterate but enthusiastic keeper; but these stories, which we have heard in jail, and with no connection, only create a thirst for more details of the daring deeds, wonderful encounters, escapes and captures. So that the advent of this book can but be a great pleasure to many wonder loving people. The work is illustrated with fine engravings, and the letter-press is clear and beautiful. It appears to be a truthfully written autobiography by a celebrated hunter, carefully revised and finished up by Mr. Hittell. It is full of daring adventures and interesting scenes.

Jack in the Forecastle, or, Incidents in the early life of Hawser Martingale.—Illustrated.—Boston: Crosby, Nichols, Lee & Co. For sale in Newport by C. E. Hammett, Jr. & Bro.

A book of great interest, especially to youthful readers, containing all the romance of fiction, yet bearing the impress of truth. The author says it contains a faithful account of his cruises, rambles and adventures during eight years of his early life—between the years 1809 and 1817. It may not contain much which is extraordinarily exciting, but the pictures it furnishes of "Life at sea," the illustrations it gives of the character of the sailor, the temptations by which he is surrounded, and the moral as well as physical dangers which met him on every side, have at least the merit of truth, and the novelty of fiction.

Woods and Waters; or, the Serenades and Rocket. With map and illustrations. By Alfred B. Street. New York: M. Douglady, 46 Walker street. For sale in Newport by C. E. Hammett, Jr. & Bro.

Most persons have heard of the great wilderness of northern New York, but few in the Eastern States know much about it, or have visited its forest confines. The author of this work, Mr. Street, possesses a fine literary taste, to which is added great descriptive talents, these, together with his intimate knowledge of the great wilderness, of which he relates so many incidents, makes the work an intensely interesting one, to say nothing of the valuable information disclosed for the benefit of his readers. No work of recent publication and similar character, has met with as much commendation from the press, and none deserves it more.

DR. GATLIN'S
FRENCH PERIODICAL PILLS.
THESE Incurable Pills were discovered
by him while practising in the Hospitals in Paris, under the immediate observation of the RENOWNED RICORD, of Paris, and ACON, of London.
Warranted in all cases to have the desired effect. These Pills are invariably certain to regulate the Female System, and can be taken without hazard. A relief is warranted, or the money returned. They are known by hundreds of females in this country, to be the only preparation ever discovered, that has proved invariably certain in cases of SUPPRESSIONS, IRREGULARITIES, &c.
One trial will convince the most sceptical, and never after will they be induced to take any other. Ladies who have often been deceived by purchasing Pills and Nourishments from
MALE AND FEMALE IMPOSTORS.
Under the pretence of effecting a cure, medicines which in nineteen cases out of twenty,
have an INJURIOUS effect upon the system,
without producing the desired result or any sign of it, should shun these Pills, and use none but the genuine.

FRENCH PERIODICAL PILLS.
The efficacy of which, has been tested in hundreds of cases, and NEVER FAILED to effect a speedy cure without any bad result. The Pills are the result of an extensive practice, and not discovered by accident. To enlarge their virtue, would add to their merit. We warrant to cure all cases of the country.
Sent by letter to all parts of the country.
Sold only at Dr. W. GATLIN'S Office, No. 13
North Main Street, Providence, R. I.

N. B.—Ladies should be careful to ascertain whether pregnancy is the cause of the stoppage, if so, the Pills should not be taken, for they would cause them to miscarry. Price
$5.00 Full directions accompany each box.
The Doctor can be consulted on all Female Complaints.
